Free Domestic Violence Outreach Training

For peoples in the workforce, employees, and business owners

What is domestic violence training?

Domestic violence training teaches people in the workforce to recognize the signs of domestic violence (or intimate partner violence) and how to direct both abusers and victims to resources and help. Here are some critical statistics surrounding intimate partner violence (IPV): IPV affects over 12 million people annually

- Almost half of both women and men have experienced physical aggression from their partner
- Although women are more often victims of IPV, 4% of men also report domestic violence
- Almost 33% of women killed on the job in the U.S. were killed by an intimate partner

Training Benefits

- Valuable Education
- State Recognized Accreditation for mandatory licensure
- Create Awareness + Advocacy for DV victims and survivors

About The Training

Hosted by Lavender&Co Beauty Studios, Helen Ross McNabb Center will be providing this free educational training class to employees and employers in the Morristown Area workforce. In this class, you will learn how to identify domestic violence and how to provide resources for victims.
